I

Preface

About The Book!

This book is The Sequel to my earlier books defining my books.

This book is my 40th and though the main intention is to be The Sequel – the book stands on its own to describe all my 39books to date! 6 books on Arab Management, 3 on Road Safety, 4 My Autobiography (The Story of My Life!) - 12 on my Columns Writings ‘Between Us Only!’ and ‘At My Workplace!’ and the rest on assorted topics!

- It is hard to beat a person who never gives up! – Babe Ruth
- Writing is the only profession where no one considers you ridiculous if you make no money! – Jules Renard

The book is a bird’s eye view all about all my book and from all my varied articles to date! The books produced here are in main part linked to me as Majid aka as Magic – Magic Man as the pseudonym I used in ‘The Forums’! Also interestingly the article – Why Do They Call You Magic? Also Who Is Majid? And My Epitaph! The articles are also about My Family and My Late Parents – Peace Be Upon Them!

I hope you will like reading about me!

People were always asking me – Why don’t you write a book about yourself and all your books at one stop centre? The story of your life? About your Books!

I then decided to accept the challenge and write this book. Like the other books – I have tried to be as factual as possible – and with my usual style of writing of speaking to you directly from my heart – and to be as sincere, genuine, frank, forthright as possible – so that this book can not only be used in Research works – but as a Guide and Beacon for the children, grandchildren, great grandchildren – and future generations by the Grace of Allah God – Ameen Amen.

About The Book

Writing is in the heart, soul and life of an Author! Simply no one can take it away from him or her - but God only! - Ann.

Writing is the only profession where no one considers you ridiculous if you make no money! - Jules Renard!

Full colourful Book! This is his 30th book and is a bird's eye view and a summary of all his 29 books to date - including the recent newer ones and also the older ones too! A one-place reference point on all his 29 books! Please see also his books website (main) www.syoumajid.com

6 books are on Arab Management - 3 are on Road Safety Awareness - and the rest assorted topics - but mainly from his columns - between 1975 and 1985 - and he has written for over 14 years.

Topics covered vary from different aspects in Social, Economic, Family, Political and Current Affairs; Society, Human Resources, Management, Offices, Training & Development, Education, Society issues; Critical Sensitive Topics (that many would fear to touch even by a long pole!) ; Organisation (Localisation) etc. Various subjects that would interest from the student to the Professor; from the Young Generations to the Older. And from The Man in The Street to The Leadership - there is something here for someone somewhere in the book!

Images have also been added in the new books - which was a point raised by Readers before; some of the topics have been made out as stories, but the messages coming out are openly vividly and crystal clear to all, in many cases that come out outright and facing the reader without any doubts or hesitations.

His style of writing is speaking to you directly from his heart - and as if knowing you for quite a long time - and using personal experience and exposures (and trusted reliable sources); in coming across in his points and assertions! A unique definitely unseen style before!

There is no doubt that one day his books will be collectible literary items with the passing of time. Highly recommended and to get your early bird copy today.

Book is also available in eBook and Kindle. More information and details here at www.syoumajid.com

Speak The Truth Only Always!

Book 34 – www.createspace.com/5640529

About The Book!

www.createpace.com/5640529

- “O you who believe! Have fear of God, and be among the Truthful.”
(The Holy Quran 9:119)
- Three things cannot be long hidden: the sun, the moon, and the truth -
Buddha
- The truth is rarely pure and never simple – Oscar Wilde
- Be who you are and say what you feel, because those who mind don't matter and those who matter don't mind! – Dr. Seuss

This is my 34th book and is a collection of all my articles that had appeared after my last book incidentally titled About My Life! My Autobiography!
www.createpace.com/5537092

The focus and theme here is – Always to Speak the Truth Only! At whatever costs and repercussions to one's life – as has always been The Path that I had chosen for myself! All my books, columns and writings are synonymous with this – and can be authenticated and given credence and proof of this!

My sister in law – my late brother's wife - died on July 26th 2015 after a series of medical complications – and this too was a stimuli for me to write the book!

01 Is being jealous and envious a good thing?

With the life nowadays of the above even running within families, can I ask you now this question?

Some months ago, I was in this Family Bookshop in Medinat Qaboos (unfortunately now also closed and moved to Al Fair in Bahja!)

There were several 'European' Tourists in the shop buying Picture Books about Oman – from Birds, Butterflies, Castles, Horses, Camels etc. you name it! The books were very expensive – all costing more than 25 OMR etc.

There was a Guide with them who is a Local Expatriate – and I recognized the language as either Dutch – or German! So sheepishly and cowardly, I asked the lady if 'she was interested to buy books written by Omani Authors'?

She was talking to the others – and using 'very foul bad language' – which I recognized working in The Oil Company. So I asked her politely – Why The Uncalled for Foul and Harshness in The Language? And why to me?

She ignored me completely. As they were getting out – one of The Tourist found 'excuse to return inside' – apologizing profusely to me – saying the Lady had recognized you as The Columnist in The Observer – and 'she hated everything you wrote and stood for' – guess one of the reasons they killed off my columns?

So I said quietly to myself – one day when I have enough money – I will make for myself - 'also a Large Picture Book' on my books! At least I deserve better than birds and butterflies – as an Omani Author and Writer – and Columnist too.

Today that ambition has been achieved! ALR! God Is Great! Ameen Amen!

It does not matter if people will buy my book or not! But I too was driven by in-born 'Haasiyds - Jealousy and Envy'!

What do you think?

This is his 37th book and is a Full Color Bird's Eye View and a Summary of all his 36 Thirty Six Books to date – including The Recent Newer Ones and also The Older Ones too! A One-Place Reference Point on all his 36 Books!

Please see also his books website (main) <http://www.myownmajid.com> 6 books are on Arab Management – 3 are on Road Safety Awareness – 3 on his life and Autobiography and the rest are on assorted topics – but mainly from his Columns – Between Us Only! The column had run for over 14 years.

Topics covered vary from different aspects in Social, Economic, Family, Political and Current Affairs; Society, Human Resources, Management, Offices, Training & Development, Education, Society issues; Critical Sensitive Topics (that many would fear to touch even by a long pole!) ; Omanisation (Localisation) etc.

Various subjects that would interest from the student to The Professor; from The Young Generations to The Older. And from The Man in The Street to The Leadership – there is something here for someone somewhere in the book! Images have also been added in the new books – which was a point raised by Readers before! Some of the topics have been made out as stories, but the messages coming out are openly vividly and crystal clear to all, in many cases that comes out outright and facing the Reader without any doubt or innuendos.

His style of writing is speaking to you directly from his heart – and as if knowing you for quite a long time – and using personal experiences and exposures (and trusted reliable sources!) in coming across in his points and assertions! A unique definitely unseen style before!

The Story of My Life! My Autobiography Books!

About The Book!

- It is hard to beat a person who never gives up! – Babe Ruth
- Autobiography – An Account of a person’s life and as written by that person!

This is my 33rd book – and after 6 books on Arab Management, 3 on Road Safety, 2 prior of this on My Autobiography (The Story of My Life!) – 12 on my Columns Writings ‘Between Us Only!’ and ‘At My Workplace!’ and the rest on assorted topics!

The book is a bird’s eye view all about me from my all varied articles to date! If one wants to write my Obituary then there is no place to start than from this book – but not forgetting reading the other books as well! I apologise in advance – as I do feel I may have missed out in some articles. But writing my Bibliography, this book will go 90% in doing the work!

The articles produced here are in main part linked to me as Majid aka as Magic – Magic Man as the pseudonym I used in ‘The Forums’! Also interestingly the article – Why Do They Call You Magic? Also Who Is Majid? And My Epitaph! The articles are also about My Family and My Late Parents – Peace Be Upon Them!

There are several bits and pieces spread out in my other 28 books where they could also come here – but then the book will be very big in size and in contents!

People were always asking me – Why don’t you write a book about yourself? The story of your life?

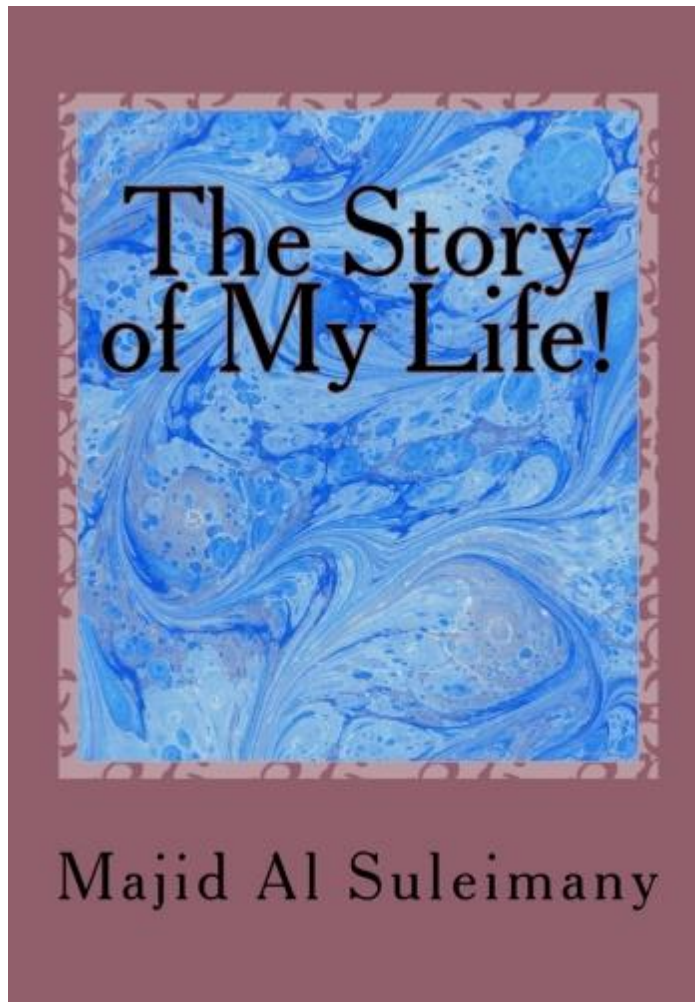

I then decided to accept the challenge and write this book. Like the other books – I have tried to be as factual as possible – and with my usual style of writing of speaking to you directly from my heart – and to be as sincere, genuine,

THE MAGIC MAN!

MAJID AL SULEIMANY

 Book Sample Extract

Yesterday I met this old friend of mine MF. We used to work together in this American run Local Company where I had taken over from an Indian (Extremist /a Hindu Fundamentalist BJP RSS Supporter in our own country!) as The HR Manager. There was a campaign led by him and his supporters on my taking over and supported by many British European Managers! With exception of MF and some others – who thought the change was past due and opportune!

They were quoting references of my ‘fame and notoriety’ of pushing and supporting Omanisation – Recruitment and Training and Development of Local Staff. This had made many expatriates worried – especially those incumbents in jobs that Omanis could easily take over – with some training, support and mentorship! Especially those jobs in Administration and Secretarial – which by law are required to be held by Locals anyway!

The majority of The Indian Led Mafias (with support from some Omani Old Guards –our own!) made a field day of making my life terrible, horrible and dreadful. There was an Indian Staff who was actually a Cancer patient – he did not know it – and had a habit of coming in late from holidays! His boss – British – had ‘demanded’ that HR fire him whilst still at home – and not to return.

Unfortunately, he had already returned – and was told ‘that new HR Omani Manager’ wants to terminate you – please go and see him. My good lady Assistant (Indian) told him – This is not true! Actually M was resisting your termination!

Please come with your medical certificates – and please that present of boat toy model (from Kerala) you want to give your British boss – give it to M instead! After I had left the place – I heard later he died of cancer back home – but I had cancelled the Termination on my own. The Good American CEO supported my decision – despite the outcries and campaigns – by his own – sadly – just to get at me!

One Indian Mechanic came to my Office! He had brought some papers he wanted the Company to sign for him. He had safety boots on – and was standing far from my desk! I told him to come in and sit – he was an ‘untouchable caste’ – and my predecessor had prohibited him to come into the Office.

I told him – come in and sit. He was very nervous and frankly shaking all over. I invited for tea and water – he was actually gulping nervously! I signed his papers – and he was crying ‘I worked 12 years this place. Today first time I sit in this office – and you offer me tea! Sir – they saying very bad things about you – behind your back – as he gave me the gift he had intended for his British boss! I called this man – and gave him a piece of my mind – which just added fuel to the already burning fire!

The day I left – all the Staff – including Indian Machinists – switched off the machines – not allowed unless Fire and Emergency – which raised Alarm Bells to CEO in Dubai by Emergency Line! He called on the loud speaker – What is happening? My Lady Indian Assistant with tears on her eyes said – Sir – they are escorting M to the Gate to say Goodbye – Sir some men (Indian) are even crying Sir! That is alright then – retorted the CEO – Goodbye MS – my nickname!

A British Director (Supporter) told me as I left – tired of all the Mafias campaigns as ‘not worth my tensions being a Diabetic Acute Sick person – even if I needed the money – ‘M coming here was like fresh air blowing over a stale dump heap – now the stale air is back! Despite my advices ‘not to increase rates’ – they lost major contracts from PDO which they always got – and it went to a Chinese company instead! Soon after the company went under as ‘unmanageable’ – and sold off to a Local Partner!

The Local Partner knew I was leaving and had confided to him! He let me go – even though he knew at the time he was going to buy off the company – and brought in a relative ex Zanzibar person to take over from me! Me though born in Zanzibar too was not known to him – besides my Late Father was Omani born – and that is ‘how the cookie crumbles in Oman – then and still now!

Soon after I published my First Arab Management Book – Psychology of Arab Management Thinking – www.trafford.com/08-0889 – and 5 later on!

Allah Kareem! God Is Great! Alhamdu Lillah!

04 My Arab Management Books!

The USA Review of Books!

A A Cry For Help! – By Majid Al Suleimany – Trafford Publishing

Reviewed by Peter M. Fitzpatrick

- Our religion is one of faith, compassion, love, tolerance, and understanding – yet some of us use its name to justify their wanton and indiscriminate acts.” – The Author

This book is a large collection of articles the author has written for the book and from his newspaper column entitled “Between Us Only” in the Oman Daily Observer. He writes from a management perspective and thirty years employment in human resources and training. No punches are pulled in describing his experiences with racial prejudice in big corporation culture, both from expatriate staff and even his fellow Omani workers. But the scope is not limited to business issues.

Reasons for the economic lag in Arabic countries are also floated: “I suspect that a real problem exists in the mind of Arabs: They do not feel that they own their own countries.” These issues seem prescient of the contemporary “Arab Spring.”

There are no neat categories to index or access in an orderly fashion. The result is one that might put off more academically interested readers in Arabic management issues. But the general drift of the writing is illuminatingly simple. Simple human respect and kindness, universal values that transcend culture and creed, are re-affirmed throughout.

The tone of the book is journalistic, not too far from the sense of an American editorial column. It is filled with concrete examples of the way companies operate in the Arab world and as such is an invaluable resource for anyone interested in that subject. It is not a book on management theory in the abstract; the author’s rationale is moral and ethical, based on an Islamic understanding of the human condition in Oman.

The Sequel!

My Own Majid Books!

His approach is moderate, however, with the result being more light on effective corporate management, from the unique perspective of a manager-writer form

B Psychology of Arab Management Thinking! The Book Review

The book was reviewed by one John E. Roper – USA – Quote –

<http://www.theusreview.com/reviews/Psychology-Suleimany.html>
<http://www.trafford.com/08-0889>

- “It is only by building on existing strengths, and moving forward on established capabilities that economic maturity can be achieved and rising living standards maintained.”
- It is from the womb of art that criticism was born! – Charles Baudelaire
Writers approach their craft with a variety of motivations. Some search for fame, others for fortune, and still others because spinning words together is one of the few things they are really good at.

Some, though, write because what they have to say is burning inside them, and the only release is to share with others what has so inflamed their emotions.

Such is the case with the author, whose passion for his people and his culture has driven him to speak out against the problems within Arab management practices so that, as he says, he can one day tell his grandchildren that by writing books he did something about them.

The author approaches his topic as an insider. Having worked extensively in the global business environment and in human resources in particular, both with Arab and international leadership, he has seen firsthand the shortsightedness, prejudice, paranoia, and autocratic tendencies of many Arab managers as well as the unfortunate fact that motivation and morale are frequently higher among Arab employees when someone other than one of their own countrymen is in charge.

These observations have gnawed at him, and he questions not only why the situation within the corporate world is like this but also what can be done about it.

The Sequel!

My Own Majid Books!

As an Omani, the Author offers great insight into his own country's management issues, but he is quick to point out that many of the observations he makes can be applied to businesses throughout the Arab world. While the subject matter of this book will mainly appeal to readers approaching it from an Arab perspective, students of international business can also learn a lot from the author's research – Unquote

C What The Book Had Said!

As aforementioned, the book is about Arab Management issues and aspects – with personal experiences, exposures and examples of the Author stretching over 35 years experiences in Management and Human Resources – and as a Consultant, Advisor and Expert for over the past 10 years in a number of companies.

Image Front Cover

Book Theme – This is a no punch spared, no barrels held, no frills and no play stuff book but to be as open, frank, sincere and honest as far as is possible – in deep soul search and self-analysis – so it can be a learning process for this generation – and for others to come in the future.

Continued – Author's Note – For a long time now, I have been putting off the idea of writing this book – though it had been on my mind for a long time now. The mere idea of writing this book scared me to bits and pieces – for many valid and pertinent reasons.

As Arabs, work is worshipped (Islamic Religion calls on us to respect work like as if it is in praying!). We are also brought up to be polite, courteous and decent (at least a majority of us). Abrupt, ugly, rudeness and distort are discouraged. Also it is not easy to say NO – as part of the culture, customs, traditions and heritage. So what went wrong here – especially in Management circles? Why are we behind the rest of the world, despite all our riches and resources?

The Sequel!

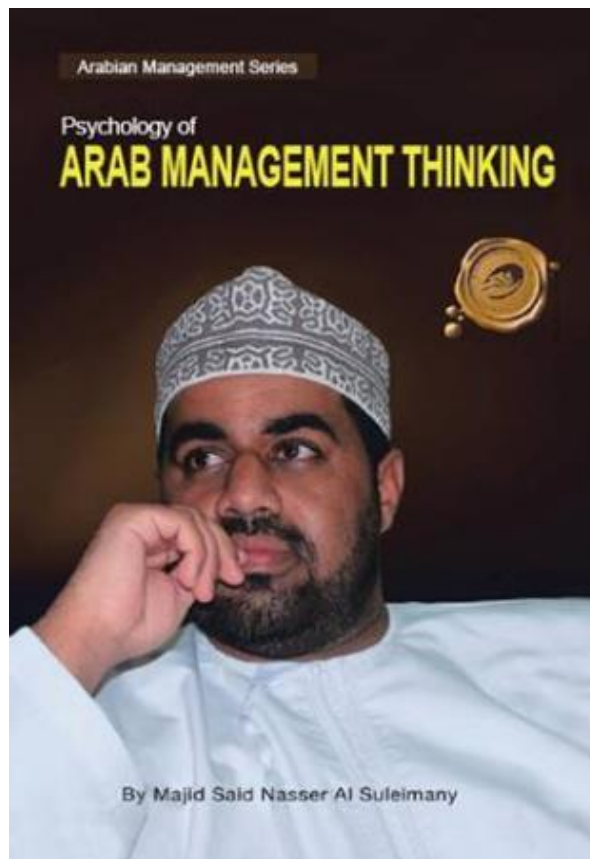

My Own Majid Books!

I hope you will enjoy the book. I have tried to be as frank, open, forthright, honest, sincere and genuine as I can – as Readers who know me can give credence and credibility to me and will vouch and authenticate my works.

I have not spared myself, so there is just for it to be honest, sincere, genuine and hard hitting – sparing no one. Just No One!

Take Care!

“The suppression of ideas and thought is a major sin, and we will never allow anyone to stifle freedom of thought. ... In our religion there is tolerance, morality and openness, and the venerable Quran stands for knowledge and thought”- His Majesty Sultan Qaboos bin Said

My Responses!

Yes I have done that (Contacting Banks and Companies CSR!) to support my books distribution and marketing.

I have first tried my Bank which is BankMuscat.. But nothing forthcoming. I even asked to increase my credit card level which they rejected as being over 55. Tried Bank Sohar and others too. Nothing..! One crude Bank CSR Top Guy said to me – We are not in the business of buying and selling books! So sad and tragic! Yet all the talks are on SMEs and Self Employments etc. All talks and rhetoric. I do not know if our HM knows these vile games being played and use of his good name in vain. I approached several Top Guys and VIPs HH and HEs But nothing. Even they do not say they got my sent books compliments to them or not. My targets are Expatriates especially in UAE over

My Own Majid Books!

5 million and KSA also. Negotiations ongoing with at least one in UAE. Next is to try KSA. My books are all in English with exception of one Arabic Behind The Wheel! www.createspace.com/4875352 .

Translation and publishing was sponsored by PDO CSR. Alhamdu Lillah. Also another edition by Daleel of MB Group. But still to see the books distributed by them to ROP ORSA etc. Though I did on my own my copies. But no Thanks nor letter. Mind you this is a Road Safety Book in high class profile in Arabic by PDO with PDO images inside. PDO also bought 700 Rials worth of my books for their Management Library Books. On the Press Side please note HE Minister of Information only Muscat Daily covered my Road Safety Books. Others refused to touch my books with a long pole even!

Yet in The Oman Daily Observer where I had columns already – I had to beg borrow and steal to cover the book. Actually started my downfall spiraling with clashes with some Indians who joined forces with our own Omanis Top Guys to abruptly kill my columns. I think our HM does not know what is really going on with entrusted responsibilities people or they do not tell him what is Really Going on. Because I saw an interview where he expressed love for books but was increasingly denied time to read books. I sent even to HM but not sure if delivered or thrown File 13. So sad and tragic frown emoticon

The books on Road Safety were even given lukewarm reception because I am anti person perhaps speaking The Truth and refuse to continue to push the dirt under the already stinking rotting carpet! Bad Hearts Haasidyyn all around with Old Guards and Mafias! We know our Driving. Yet the RSA books failed to get across. Why? Because written by that Majid Al Suleimany Omani? Yes I think? Loyal and loves HM and Oman Yes...but... One Top British CEO also Americans are shocked by The Lukewarm reception Oman was enlightenment and top in Literacy world per history! But now slowly being strangled by its own peoples! Allah Kareem Alhamdu Lillah!

About Public Libraries in Oman

There is the PDO Technical Library in Qorum and I understand one in Manah by HM. If you check Reading Literacy Rankings worldwide Oman is in the bottom lists... which should not be the case with our historical records. If the books were by an Expatriate in Oman or and especially Pretty White Lady everyone will come to support in expectations of perhaps love favours! My columns were taken by one anyway! So it is not absurd as it may look! ALLAH KAREEM!

Thanks Majid for the information, I didn't know the situation is that bad. I always think and question why in Oman we don't have a public library, like most countries which respect knowledge

I know about the PDO technical library, but there should be a public library somewhere easy for the public with variety of books. I remember when I was in Abu Dhabi in 80s they had public library as part of the cultural center. It is so sad that we are at the bottom of the world wide Reading Literacy Rankings.

Response (s)

It is a pity that books by Omanis are not looked by the content and how they will benefit the society, but by other criterion!!!

It seems not. The path of knowledge is the path of truth. Hang on brother Majid, Allah is with those who show patience. Ameen

Dear Majid;

Please read from me your True Friend and Supporter. Forget about the way these people treat you on your books! They do not deserve an iota of your feelings because they are a lost cause.

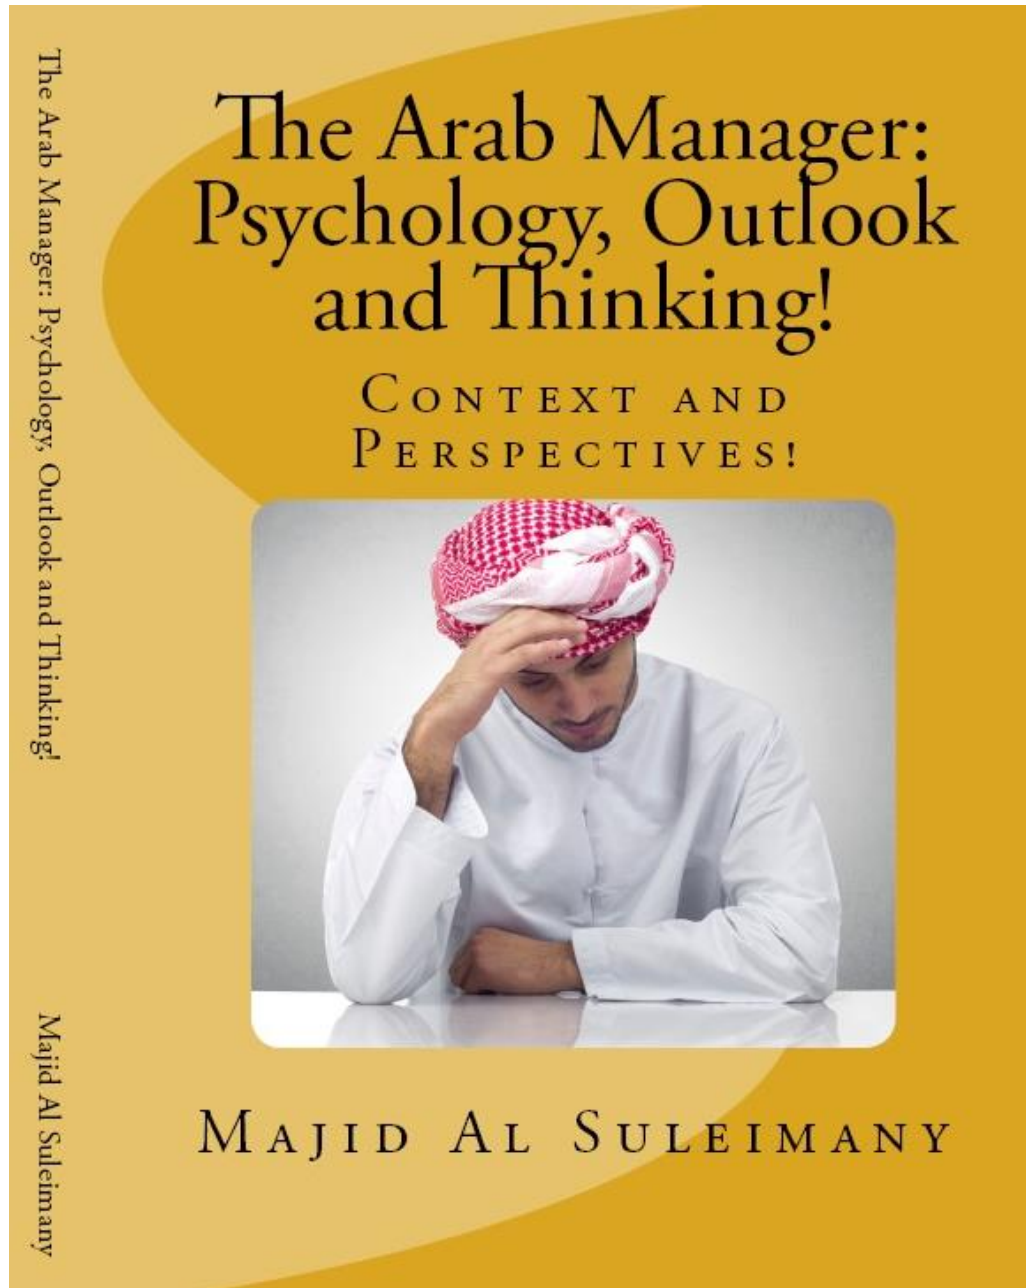

We can only hope and pray for the grandchildren at least hopefully that they will not be like them! You are a great personality that is kind and good and that has done a lot for the society as a whole. If they do not realise this and recognise you it is more their loss than yours! My Arab Management Books Reviews – The USA Review of Books!

A - A Cry For Help! - By Majid Al Suleimany - Trafford Publishing

- Our religion is one of faith, compassion, love, tolerance, and understanding – yet some of us use its name to justify their wanton and indiscriminate acts – The Author employment in human resources and training. No punches are pulled in describing his experiences with racial prejudice in big corporation culture, both from expatriate staff and even his fellow Omani workers. But the scope is not limited to business issues.

Reasons for the economic lag in Arabic countries are also floated: "I suspect that a real problem exists in the mind of Arabs: They do not feel that they own their own countries." These issues seem prescient of the contemporary "Arab Spring."

There are no neat categories to index or access in an orderly fashion. The result is one that might put off more academically interested readers in Arabic management issues. But the general drift of the writing is illuminatingly simple. Simple human respect and kindness, universal values that transcend culture and creed, are re-affirmed throughout.

The tone of the book is journalistic, not too far from the sense of an American editorial column. It is filled with concrete examples of the way companies operate in the Arab world and as such is an invaluable resource for anyone interested in that subject. It is not a book on management theory in the abstract; the author's rationale is moral and ethical, based on an Islamic understanding of the human condition. Oman.

His approach is moderate, however, with the result being more light on effective corporate management, from the unique perspective of a manager-writer form

Psychology of Arab Management Thinking!

The Book Review

The book was reviewed by one John E. Roper – USA – Quote –

- It is only by building on existing strengths, and moving forward on established capabilities that economic maturity can be achieved and rising living standards maintained.”
- It is from the womb of art that criticism was born! – Charles Baudelaire

Writers approach their craft with a variety of motivations. Some search for fame, others for fortune, and still others because spinning words together is one of the few things they are really good at.

Some, though, write because what they have to say is burning inside them, and the only release is to share with others what has so inflamed their emotions.

Such is the case with the author, whose passion for his people and his culture has driven him to speak out against the problems within Arab management practices so that, as he says, he can one day tell his grandchildren that by writing books he did something about them.

The author approaches his topic as an insider. Having worked extensively in the global business environment and in human resources in particular, both with Arab and international leadership, he has seen firsthand the shortsightedness, prejudice, paranoia, and autocratic tendencies of many Arab managers as well as the unfortunate fact that motivation and morale are frequently higher among Arab employees when someone other than one of their own countrymen is in charge.

These observations have gnawed at him, and he questions not only why the situation within the corporate world is like this but also what can be done about it.

As an Omani, the Author offers great insight into his own country's management issues, but he is quick to point out that many of the observations he makes can be applied to businesses throughout the Arab world. While the subject matter of this book will mainly appeal to readers approaching it from an Arab perspective, students of international business can also learn a lot from the author's research – Unquote

C What The Book Had Said!

As aforementioned, the book is about Arab Management issues and aspects – with personal experiences, exposures and examples of the Author stretching over 35 years experiences in Management and Human Resources – and as a Consultant, Advisor and Expert for over the past 10 years in a number of companies.

in deep soul search and self-analysis – so it can be a learning process for this generation – and for others to come in the future.

Continued – Author’s Note – For a long time now, I have been putting off the idea of writing this book – though it had been on my mind for a long time now. The mere idea of writing this book scared me to bits and pieces – for many valid and pertinent reasons.

As Arabs, work is worshipped (Islamic Religion calls on us to respect work like as if it is in praying!). We are also brought up to be polite, courteous and decent (at least a majority of us). Abrupt, ugly, rudeness and distort are discouraged. Also it is not easy to say NO – as part of the culture, customs, traditions and heritage. So what went wrong here – especially in Management circles? Why are we behind the rest of the world, despite all our riches and resources?

I hope you will enjoy the book. I have tried to be as frank, open, forthright, honest, sincere and genuine as I can – as Readers who know me can give credence and credibility to me and will vouch and authenticate my works.

I have not spared myself, so there is just for it to be honest, sincere, genuine and hard hitting – sparing no one. Just No One!

Problems of Reading, Comprehending and Understanding English!

Comprehension and Meaning by The Omani English Speaking Community.

For the past 2 weeks I was admitted as an Emergency case in The Royal Hospital Bowsher with kidney stones and developing prostate. The operation is set for early November with backlogs queues of more serious medical operations required with overworked and overstretched Medical Staff. That is discussion in future in another posting! Λ

What I am talking today is the issue of The More English Speaking Omani Communities or so called Returning Omanis (so-called Zanzibaris aka) post 1970s with The Blessed Renaissance.

With few exceptions - their Arabic is dismal poor and with the exceptions of their now born in Oman children and grandchildren. Yet they still fashion like to communicate in English - especially in things like WhatsApp.

When they read the writings their minds translate it all into Swahili which could have a different meaning interpretation and connotation. It is not only the Language levels but their inwardness and their Intellectual capacities at stake... generally speaking – that is! Leading to great stress frustrations and misunderstandings!

The Swahili they know and use in Oman is already out of date - since 1970s coming to Oman. Here too they are Losers when getting messages from East Africa as Swahili has changed much in Grammar Comprehension etc. and in usage - thanks to late Ghaddafi who wanted to make Swahili as Lingua Franca of Africa.

Many times I am required to apologise to some people who have misread my messages! I now do understand why my ex bosses in PDO especially found adversity and enmity in me by my style of speaking what I feel from my heart.

The problems are even worse when sending to Arabic Speakers who translate into Arabic.

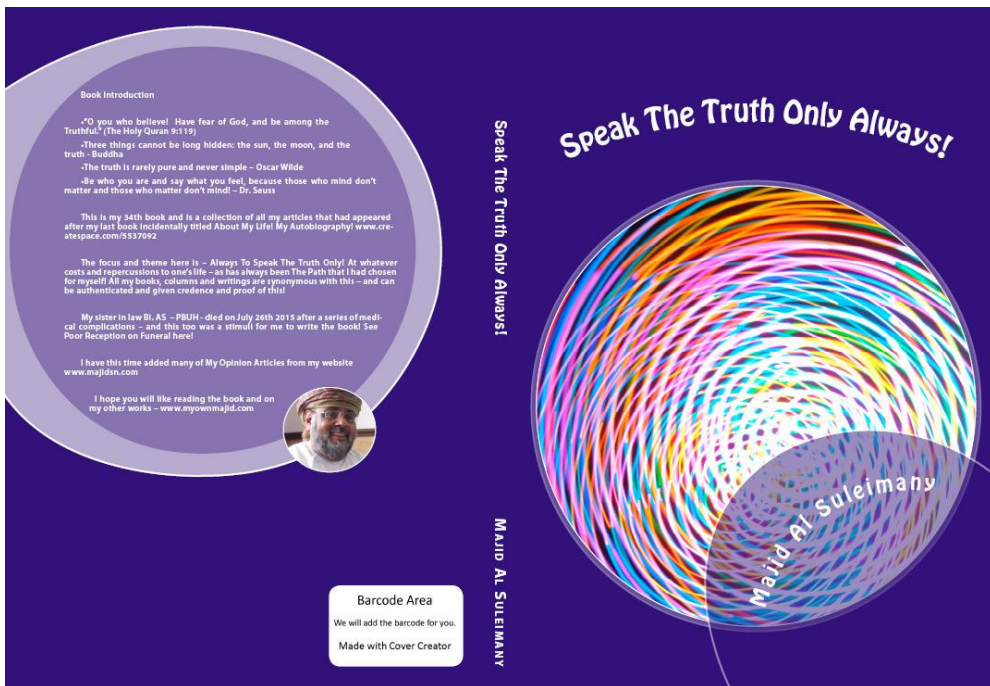

This problem is not there with our Residents Indians Pakistanis Filipinos etc.

Of course not with The Westerners.

It is so sad and tragic.

I have decided now to limit all my WhatsApp contact only to my direct family. It is really a terrible sad state of affairs... and a lost case in reality.

Others like ROP, ORSA and others, Children Library etc. I have given Free Complimentary Copies - to many establishments - but not even a mention - or Acknowledgement or Thank You Note!

Are we really sincere - or is it that those Poor Authors and Writers like us with No Connection (Wastah!) have just to be ignored, sidelined and marginalized - even if the Topic is needed opportune and necessary for us in Oman GCC the way we drive?

19 My Epitaph!

A long time ago as a kid, I used to hear people talk about death and how they will go! I always wondered out aloud how I would go – if my turn came up next!

I always prayed that I would go sudden and people surprised he went away that fast! But I never want to cause trouble and inconveniences to others before I die – if I was to choose these things! But it is all in God Allah hands!

Anyway, I had this dream of ‘dying by starvation’ – I do not know what it meant! Was it going to be real as in the dream – or as a metaphor like liking to eat too much and getting fatter by day – and as now being diabetic case?

Or would it be like my late Father PBUH where he wanted food and water but was denied by The Doctors (they were using instead drips!) – because they needed to operate on his stomach – because there was a blockage in his small intestines – and till after the operation could be given food!

Anyway only God Allah SWT Knows these things best!

Sorry for a morbid subject!

Here lies a person who in all his life had acted and stood up for the rights of others – and to whatever extent and even harm and injury and damage to himself personally – and he went down that way!

Where he could change things himself he did – otherwise he spoke out for Change. Always wanted to be fair, just, professional, principled, correct and ethical in all things he did.

A person who was always sincere, genuine and honest – frank, open and forthright who always looked at The Bigger Picture – and never wanted things to go wrong as his focus and theme in life! Even though many of his efforts were never acknowledged, accepted and realized – and he became a victim himself in his life, career, and future and with his family too!

He wants to be remembered that way only!

Now – She was smiling broadly! If you are an expert, one can then easily tell that this was a genuine and sincere smile, no artificial or make up things that we see nowadays in commercials and advertisements – and that depends on who is at the other end. If it is someone from the home place or even you like, then it is all real, sincere and genuine – nothing fake or acting stuff. That is a new one, she teased!

It is not bent Sir, it is the design of it all. Something they call as New Art. New Artistic Design and Inspiration. Oh, I see – the man stumbled. I should have known better than to question and look at a gift horse in the mouth – he thought loud. These peoples from that country? They know how to come back to you, without making you feel small and insignificant.

2 – Dear Lady Of The House, the Local Woman said to the Madam of the house. Give me the baby; let me take him from you. He is gone Madam, he is dead. Let me take him from you. You need to rest now; you need your sleep – poor you. It is God’s Will; He has selected to take your baby early. We must and just have to accept His Wishes. No, No. the woman cried out. My baby is not dead. I can feel him he is still alive. He just has gone to deep sleep, but he is not dead. I know – the local woman said again to the Madam. I know, and feel for you. I know how you feel, I lost my own the same way. It is just denial. I told you my baby is very sick, but he is still alive. I am not giving him to you or anyone else, even his Father. This is my first born and only baby, and I am keeping him – whatever you and others will say. You must bury me first to bury my son – the woman pushed back.

Leave her for a while, the other women implored. Let it sink in slowly, do not push it. The baby was just 2 years old, very sick. He looked dead for sure. One of the elder men in the family could vouch for it. But leave her alone for now – it will come to her eventually to accept the sad truth. The woman looked at them with very angry and hostile eyes, get out from you – you old witch of a woman.

You just wanted my baby to die, do not take me for a fool, I know what you want. Get away from me. The local woman tried to snatch the baby from Mother's hands; we need to wash the baby she said out loud. The baby needs to be washed before it is buried. With the pull between the two women, the baby woke up with a start, and started crying out very loud. It was as if it knew the fate that was awaiting him, and he must wake up now before it is too late. See you stupid woman! I told you my baby was alive, and you wanted to bury him alive? Get out from my house, now! I do not want you to come in my house ever again. What kind of person are you?

12 Years Old ****

Open your eyes, the Father implored. Try to open your eyes, Son. I cannot – the boy replied. Try son, the Father implored. I have a very nice gift to give you, if you can open your eyes and see it, son? Son, please? The boy opened his eyes finally. Everybody was crying. The boy did not understand all the commotion was what for. He had never seen this soft side of his father before. His Father, the tough big built man was crying like the women in the room, his Mother included. In that small island that they had lived, the River Disease had hit many children of the village, especially the local children. There was something in the river that caused this blindness, nobody knew what it was. It started with the poorer children, now even the so-called rich and powerful families had it

The shot rang out! They have killed my son, the Mother cried out to the rest of the Family huddled inside. Everybody was crying! We have lost our son, the Mother cried to the Father. The shot rang out again. It was all quiet outside the house, nobody knew what was happening. The one who said he was a Police Official and had lost his job – because of you peoples – had taken the boy outside. I want your eldest son, pointing his pistol at the family.

I want to ask him some questions. When a loaded pistol points at you, there is hardly anything you can do, even if you are many. Besides, this was a new experience the family had never met before. An armed man who comes into your house, and wanting to kill someone because you come from that group of peoples who had made him lose his Sergeant job – though he was not an Islander, but came from the Mainland. From even a different country for that matter.

Like they say, what goes around comes around. If you do good things to peoples as part of your family's focus and aspirations, you will be recognized – and good things will come back to you. The other armed men were now shouting to the Ex Police Man, what are doing to the boy? They are innocent peoples, they respect everyone. Besides, they just came to this place. Leave him alone. They were pointing guns at him. Give us your pistol, they said to the man. The man gave it up unwillingly. They hit him by the butt of the rifle. He fell down. Now run they told him – or we shall shoot you next. Like also in each basket, there are good and bad fish or fruits – take your pick.

Your son is alive – the men told the family – Do not cry. He shot at him, but he missed him! It is God's wish to send us to save you all. You need to come with us, to come to the refuge centre. This town on the outskirts are no longer safe for you peoples. The boy went in, they all hugged him – including his younger brother who was always picking fights with him, trying to undercut him being the leader of the pack!

Now – 2008

Now – I was watching this film. Just a few days before my birthday two days back. The bullied man was saying to the ‘stronger man’. I do not care, you know what? I am happy what I am. As I am. You think you are better than me? No, you are not. I know what I am, I do not need to think of who I am. I am proud of myself. I know my strengths and my power points, my shortfalls – and whatever you want to say about me. Do not expect me to be like you, and follow you? You think you have won? That you are master of your fate? No, you are just kidding yourself. You only think in your mind that you are better than me, but you are not. You cannot create me, nor can you change me. I am what I am – like I said am proud of myself!

I sympathise with the man. I remember that day clearly. When my strongest of the country adversary not sober and completely not in control of his faculties said to me – Do you know why I hate you as your boss? Do you know why? I said, No I do not know why. Then he retorts – what kind of person are you? Always trying to look good and nice? Always the Actor? The one who is always after a popularity contest? To impress and show off to peoples. Pretending you do not smoke. You do not drink. You have no other vices? Whom are you trying to kid? I know you well. 15 years ago.

And then that call at 2 am at night 15 years ago again. I am going to board my plane now, the man said. Please M – Do Not Change! Remain as you are. Follow your ethics and principles in life. Your focus. You think you have lost? No, you have won. You are far better than all the rest of the competition to you put together, including even the top ones. They wish secretly they were like you, but cannot be. You care and feel. They know it, and accept it. I can tell you know – one I am not sober, and two am leaving your country forever.

I respect and esteem you a lot, forever you will be on the top of my honours and respectable list.

How come a British Boss can appreciate – but not our own? So were The Nigerian, Dutch (jew) Boss? So many other European too?

5 years ago in that other place, it was the Messengers of the place (from another country). Always the lower echelon who felt more. Two weeks ago in my own country, as I was leaving the place, one of the Directors came to my room – he caught my hand and kissed it. He said almost the same things to me. He was sad and desolate that I was leaving so soon. I still have it in me – to touch everyone in one way or the other!

Same thing – Three years ago, the whole workforce with The Shop Manager (Indian) closing down all the machines – and all the Staff walk with me to the gate to say Goodbye to me! The Indian Tea Boy crying because I was leaving!

That is me, and will never change. Take Care!

Images have also been added in the new books - which was a point raised by Readers before! Some of the topics have been made out as stories, but the messages coming out are openly vividly and crystal clear to all, in many cases that comes out outright and facing the Reader without any doubts or insecurities.

His style of writing is speaking to you directly from his heart - and as if knowing you for quite a long time - and using personal experiences and exposures (and trusted reliable sources!) in coming across in his points and assertions! A unique definitely unseen style before!

There is no doubt that one day his books will be Collectible Literary Items with the passing of time. Highly recommended and to get your early bird copy today.

About The Book!

•Thank you for your email and thank you for being nice and patient to us. It is my great pleasure talking and assisting an excellent Author. I learned a lot from you Majid, you are frank and honest to me. I apologize for the inconvenience once again – The Books Publisher USA.

For a very long time now, I have been contemplating on writing this book 'as my Obituary and Epitaph' – but have always kept it at arm's length – as many people believe it is a sort of foresight, omen and prophesy of 'inviting one's end – sooner than expected!

About The Book!

Book Behind Cover Writing!

•Do not tell me you are going to write this book! I just cannot believe it! – British CEO
•I thought after your last book – and the end of your columns – you will stop writing! You have me pleasantly surprised! – Senior Omani Public Official (Retired)

This is my 27th book and the 6th in The Arab Management Series!

The book contains many real and true life stories on Arab Management and that have happened to people – both local and foreigners – and the outcomes, repercussions and affects in their lives now and others and as a learning experience and lesson to others.

It is a novice first time type ever written book in Oman in a reading novel type format - written in the simplest of English - as it is envisaged that many of the Readers English is a second language (or third) after Arabic - and to make it easy for them to understand and comprehend – taking into account the importance of the subject in Arab Management aspects, its environment and surroundings!

This is my Sixth Arab Management Book after Psychology of Arab Management Thinking! And A Cry For Help! And my 12th book! Three books are on Road Safety and the balance are based on my columns and writings!

All my Arab Management books have been written after a major upheaval in my life at the work front and elsewhere involving my life! I was always under the impression that my book A Cry For Help! As was going to be my last book in Arab Management with the events that followed proving my case why I needed help! as an Arab Manager! Though trying best to keep to myself – and trying to avoid conflict and confrontations as much as I possibly could – but people would not leave me alone! They were still after me!

I then decided to accept the challenge and write this book. Like the other books – I have tried to be as factual as possible – and with my usual style of writing of speaking to you directly from my heart – and to be as sincere, genuine, frank, forthright as possible – so that this book can not only be used in Further Research works – but as a Guide and Beacon for the children, grandchildren, great grandchildren – and future generations by the Grace of Allah SWT God – Ameen Amen.

About The Book!

For a long time now, I have been putting off the idea of writing this book – though it had been on my mind for a long time now. The mere idea of writing this book scared me to bits and pieces – for many valid and pertinent reasons.

As Arabs, work is worshipped (Islamic Religion calls on us to respect work like as if it is in praying). We are also brought up to be polite, courteous and decent (at least a majority of us). Abrupt, ugly, rudeness and distort are discouraged. Also it is not easy to say NO – as part of the culture, customs, traditions and heritage.

So what went wrong here – especially in Management circles? Why are we behind the rest of the world, despite all our riches and resources?

I hope you will enjoy the book. I have tried to be as frank, open, forthright, honest, sincere and genuine as I can – as Readers who know me can give credence and credibility to me and will vouch and authenticate my works.

It is a no punch-spared, no barrels held stiff, no frills – play but to be as frank, open and honest as possible – so it can be a learning process for this generation and others to come in the future.

I have not spared myself, so there is just for it to be honest, sincere, genuine and hard hitting – sparing no one. Just No One!

Be who you are and say what you feel; because those who mind don't matter; and those who matter; don't mind! - Dr. Seus

About The Book!

This is a book re-do of my previous book – Original Book - A Cry For Help! It was suggested to me by an American CEO friend of mine who had read all my books – including the Arab Management ones! He commented that though this particular book was very important – it did not take off well in reading and reception like the Psychology book which had won The USA Gold Seal Literary Excellence for 2013 (Eric Hoffer)! The reasons were plain people misjudging the book by a cover of a Crying Lady who was not even Arab – and the first chapter being dominated as being traumatized at the time of the death of my Mother!

With changes in removing some of those chapters (and images!) of The Arab Office Environment showing radicalization, extremism and fundamentalism of The Society as most of the events are now past in references with the current status in The Middle East Post The Arab Spring Uprisings!

Though the original book had acted as an Omen and Predictor of events that came to realization post the book publication in 2009. It was my earnest prayer and wish that people – especially in The Leadership – to have read this book! Anyway, I am not the person that likes to say – again and again – I told you so!

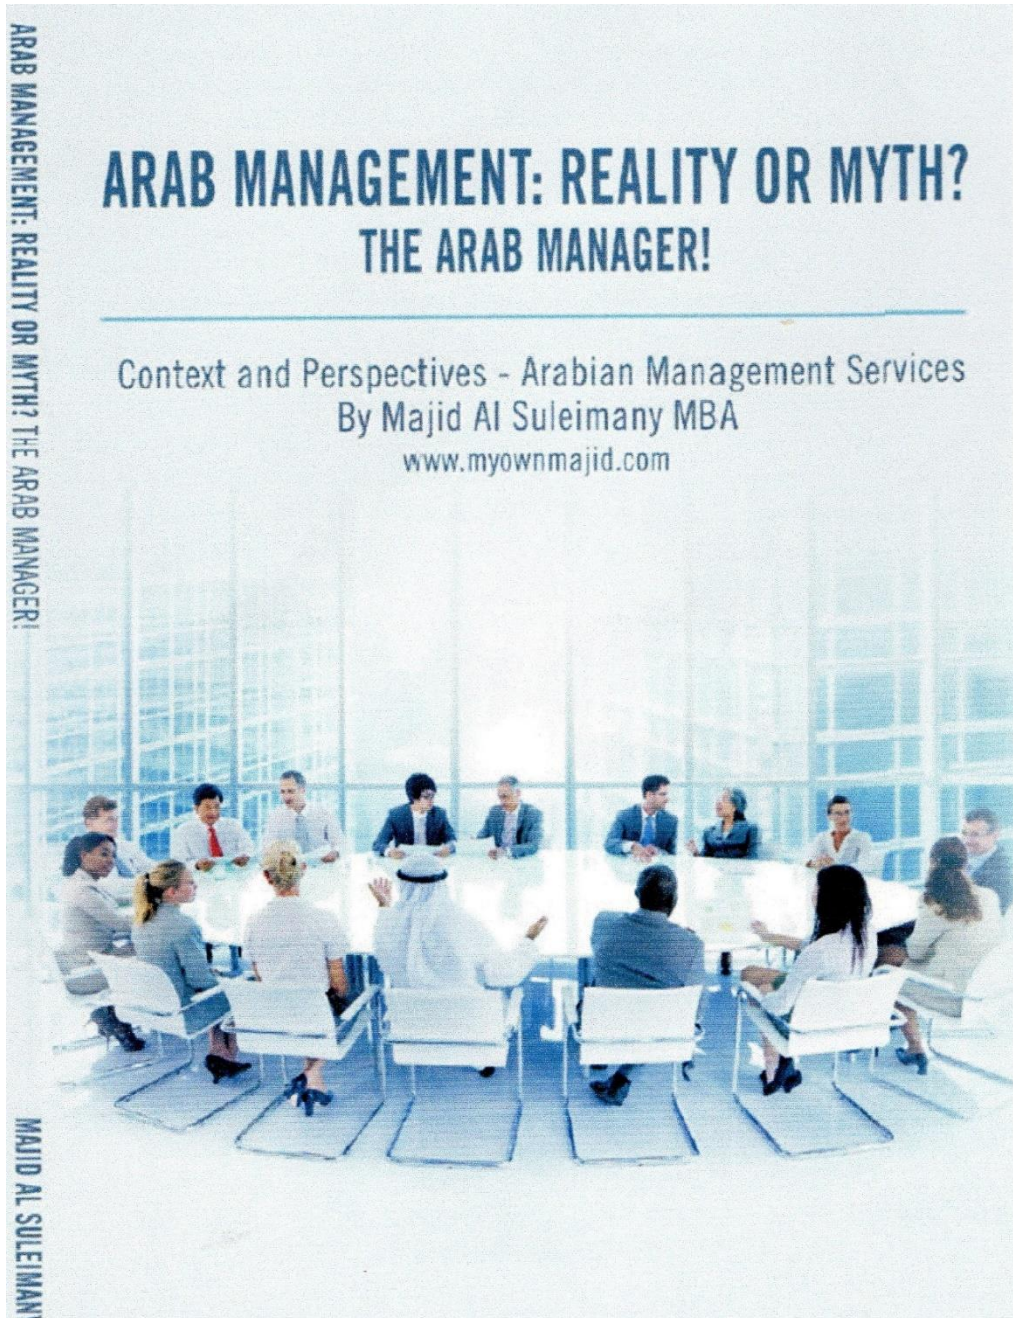

I hope you will enjoy reading the book - as still prevalent of what is going on - if not worst off now!

Why I Wrote This Book!

Do not tell me you are going to write this book! I just cannot believe it! – British CEO

I thought after your last book – and the end of your columns – you will stop writing! You have me pleasantly surprised! – Senior Omani Public Official (Retired)

This is my Third Arab Management Book after Psychology of Arab Management Thinking! And A Cry For Help! And my 12th book! Three books are on Road Safety and the balance are based on my columns and writings!

The book focuses on what is particular about the type of local Arab Management, its context and perspectives, and what is peculiar, special, or particular to that work in the context and in comparison to the Management Styles of other nations. Using personal experiences, examples, and illustrations, Al Suleimany exposes the new reality and truth and moves away from the trend and approach of hiding issues and problems. The books are soul searching, in deep self-analysis and critical evaluation of one's own people in the field.

The Author extols the culture and importance of work in his religion and the pitfalls and lacklustre attitude of some of the Managers in position about the Accountabilities, Principles, Transparencies, Professionalism and Ethics of Management – and vis-à-vis their roles, aspects and responsibilities.

The Arab countries are far richer with abundant reserves and more importantly with a healthy and young population. In spite of all these why do we lag behind others in many spheres? Is there anything wrong with the Arab Management? He says, "He is baffled and confused".

"As Arabs, work is worshipped as if it is in praying. Arabs are also brought up to be polite, courteous and decent (at least a majority of us). Abrupt, ugly, rudeness and distort are discouraged. Also it is not easy to say NO – as part of the culture, customs, traditions and heritage. So what went wrong here – especially in management circles? Why are we behind the rest of the world, despite all our riches and resources?"

The Gulf Cooperation Council countries are some of the richest ones in the world. Despite the Middle East holding huge gas and oil reserves of the world, very little is known about the area, in particular about Arabian Management aspects.

All my Arab Management books have been written after a major upheaval in my life at the work front and elsewhere involving my life! I was always under the impression that my book A Cry For Help! was going to be my last book in Arab Management with the events that followed proving my case why 'I needed help!' as an Arab Manager! Though trying best to keep to myself – and trying to avoid conflict and confrontations as much as I possibly could – but people would not leave me alone! They were still after me!

I then decided to accept the challenge and write this book. Like the other books – I have tried to be as factual as possible – and with my usual style of writing of speaking to you directly from my heart – and to be as sincere, genuine, frank, forthright as possible – so that this book can not only be used in Research works – but as a Guide and Beacon for the children, grandchildren, great grandchildren – and future generations.

It is my Final Attempt to highlight a 'Quickly Deteriorating Situation' before malaise, stalemate and decadence sets in at The Work Front and its environment! In this book nobody has been spared – and that includes even myself too as The Author!

"As an Omani, the author offers great insight into his own country's management issues, but he is quick to point out that many of the observations he makes can be applied to businesses throughout the Arab world. While the subject matter of this book will mainly appeal to readers approaching it from an Arab perspective, students of international business can also learn a lot from the author's research."

This is the Author's 10th book – and book 6 in the Between Us Only! series. The book follows up on the success of the previous books and furthers the idea of private talks between friends on matters that many are too scared to touch! Often times delving into sensitive critical topics that aren't always sweet, this enlightening book uses a clear and elegant prose to explore social evils in the society as well as their light hearted counterparts. Covering a variety of priceless topics, this wonderful collection of articles gives readers everywhere a glimpse into the issues that are prevalent in today's society.

Although the book is based mainly on Oman and The GCC, many of the topics are of universal application and appeal – with the increasing lack of tolerance, radicalization and fundamentalism in society. The book also carries many family, offices and human based articles that are applicable to us all - as bottom line we are the same human being in that same a person – with the same needs, wants and fears - devoid of race, religion, creed and color! Many of the articles are highly emotive and heart rendering – and that is the reason of adopting the title of Wipe My Tears!

Majid Al Suleimany has over twenty-five years of experience as a human resources specialist and over ten years of experience as a management and human resources consultant, expert, and advisor. Writing is the only profession where no one considers you ridiculous if you make no money! By Jules Renard

A Sense of Déjà vu!

Between Us Only! The Original!

The original book was published on around May 2003 in Oman by Al Nahda Printing Press.

Surprisingly, despite my 12 books later - there is still a large following who still think that this was my Best Book! I would not know – but surely it was My First Book! Compiling all my articles in my columns then Between Us Only! And At My Workplace in The Oman Daily Observer!

You can still find this book still in many offices in Oman – and that is really touching to me as The Author! The other day my brother in law MYS was 'scolding me' that I should have translated this book into Arabic – instead of the book Arabic – Behind The Wheel! – wwwcreatespace.com/4875352 He is one of my most advertent Reader and fan!

As there are only few copies left circulating around, I thought it fit to preserve the works by redoing the book! I was debating to add pictures and images – and to sort out by topics – but in the end decided to try as best as to add some images in! The aforementioned were 'the usual pointers and complaints' mainly raised on the book. The first book was sponsored by The MB Group of Companies and carried their Corporate Logos.

Many of the articles talk of increasing extremism, fundamentalism - of plain evil etc. – and the tear and the breaking up of The Society Fabric! 13 years later - The Truth arises – and what is most astonishing is that most of the things I had said and predicted then came to pass! And still as prevailing relevant too to date!

It was always my dream to redo the book on my own! Today that dream has become a reality! I hope you will enjoy reading the book again of past memories - a sense of Déjà Vu!

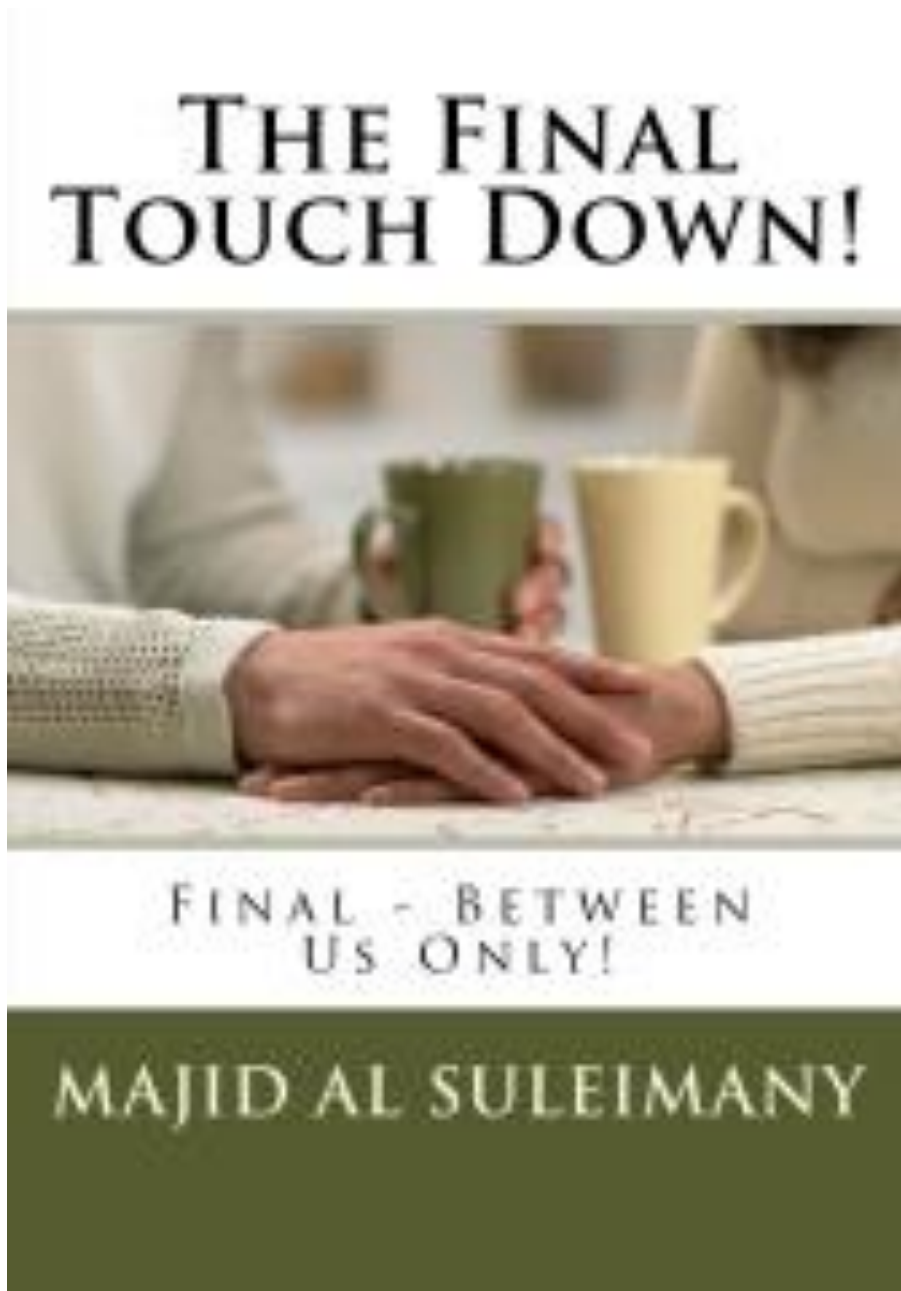

Despite strong temptations, I decided just to stick to make the book as best same as The Original version! I have used the book image of The Sequel book as front cover for this one – because honestly I did not like the previous one of boy whispering to boy – and thus an opportune time to redo it!

No one can kill the spirit, soul, passion and heart of a Writer — because so long as a Writer will live - he will not ever stop writing!

This book is the 11th book in The Series - Between Us Only!
And my 21st book so far.

It is recommended that this book be read together with this book: -

Writing: My Passion! – www.createSpace.com/5085322

* Also - Goodbye; Between Us Only! – www.createSpace.com/5139836

There were some articles missed out in the above * book after the end and the collapse of my column articles in November 2013 – more than a year ago!
What is of paramount importance is to get all my articles Post last Between Us Only1 series – Wipe My Tears! The book was published in June 2013 – all intended to put all my books in one place for further references and for record purposes!

I have also included all those articles after end of my columns mainly based on 'a Technicality' that was designed to stop and to end my columns.

I was keeping to myself and trying to avoid conflict – but still people were after me! So I decided to accept the challenge – and write and record this book as last of my columns writings for future records and references.

As Jules Renard had said – No one considers a Writer as ridiculous – even if he does not make any money! So there! Besides, I had posted this in all The Social Media

After they had 'sort of killed my columns on a Technicality!' – and post my posting on my websites – My Books Lukewarm Coverage in Media and Acceptance – it has become essential and my wish and desire to have in one place all my Books Reviews, Accolades, Comments, Independent Assessors and Evaluators – including those from Kindle – and from my First Book in 2003 to date – stretching over 13 years in total! Twelve Books in total – 3 in Road Safety – 4 in Arab Management and 6 assorted from my columns!

Also to act as a Quick Review of All My Works and as a Reference Research Point! If this will not work, nothing else will!

Thus those 'acting as God' to stop and prevent one's writings are just deluding themselves more than anybody else! Just keep praying for them to return to the right path and ways – Ameen – Amen – and for Good Karma! For Bad Karma says – Those who cause you hurt and pain – do not go for revenge – because God will let you watch as they 'screw up' in life! The East Africans also say – The man who goes up the ladder will come down sooner or later! Or as the Chinese say – if you are going to dig a grave for your enemy – dig two graves – and one keep for yourself!

Wish me (us!) luck and Take Care!

Writing is a Passion of Writers, Authors and Columnists – and will not die even after the Author's death – because his works will always be there to be viewed and be read by future generations! As we have seen books still doing rounds by Authors long time gone centuries ago!

A Cry For Help!

Attitudes of the Arab manager

Sujit Chandra Kumar
Muscat

The title of Majid Said Nasser al Suleimany's new book on management, 'A Cry for Help', sounds far more strident than that of his earlier one, 'Psychology of Arab Management Thinking'. Not that he was ever known for pulling punches. Once again, he deals with office politics of the worst kind and if the title is any indication, the new book is bound to touch a few raw nerves.

Suleimany knows his Tom Peters, but rarely does he go the hypothetical path. He deals with office situations, mainly revolving around the expat versus local theme. Anecdotes he has aplenty, thanks to his 25-year innings with Petroleum Development Oman's HR department and his short stints with a few other companies in the Gulf region. After opting for voluntary retirement, Suleimany has been working as a freelance management consultant, so he has no need to hire a psychologist to understand employee behaviour or managerial dilemmas.

"I am pained by the stereotyping that goes on all time about Omani employees. One such perception among expat managers is that 'Omanis are lazy,'" he says. Suleimany hastens to add that not all expat managers are to blame. "Most of them are impartial. But there is a tiny section who have a low opinion about local recruits. Though they are few in number, the damage they cause is tremendous."

The 'cry' for change is not just aimed at the expat, but also at the Omani employee. "People here who are part of the workforce need to be more tolerant, prove their capabilities and understand the other point of view. Many switch off instead of addressing a problem or a strained relationship with a manager and this only makes matters worse."

One perception among expat managers is that 'Omanis are lazy'

Majid Suleimany

The perception came about, he points out, as a result of a section of Omanis taking advantage of the labour rights that make it hard to dismiss them even when their performance is not satisfactory. "When one expat manager leaves, he passes on the message to his successor that locals are difficult to deal with. Those

Bane of stereotyping of local workforce

A cry for help!
by Majid Said Nasser al Suleimany
Pages 342 — Price RO 20 — $54.

THE title of Majid Said Nasser al Suleimany's new book on Management A Cry For Help! sounds far more vicious and clamorous than that of his earlier one, Psychology of Arab Management Thinking.

Addressing the increased extremism, fundamentalism, and lack of tolerance and forbearance on the work front, Majid al Suleimany presents A Cry For Help! — Arabian Management Services — Context and Perspectives.

Not that he was ever known for pulling punches and as an author well recognized and acknowledged 'to call a spade a spade! Once again, he deals with office politics of the worst kind and if the title is any indication, the new book is bound to touch a few raw nerves.

In three parts, A Cry For Help! concentrates on the management styles and aspects of companies located in Oman — and some from the GCC.

- Growing radicalisation of local staff
- Some misbehaving employees
- Unhappy, dissatisfied local staff
- Poor crude raw treatment of staff, especially by just some
- Sensitive and other related issues

His concentration and focus has been mainly with office situations. With his more than 25-year timings with Petroleum Development Oman's Human Resources (HR) Department and his short stints with a few other companies in the Gulf region, Majid gives many of his personal experiences, exposures and anecdotes here. After opting for voluntary early retirement, Majid has been working as a freelance (FR) Management Consultant. He gives many personal experiences and exposures of employee behaviour and managerial dilemmas.

In A Cry For Help!, Majid, focuses on what is particular about the type of local management, its context and perspectives, and what is peculiar, special, or particular to that work in the context and in comparison to management styles of other nations.

- Using personal experiences, examples, and illustrations, Majid exposes the new reality and truth and moves away from the tired and approach of hiding issues and problems.

"I am pained by the stereotyping that goes all time about Omani employees. One such perception among some managers is that Omanis are lazy", he says. Majid hastens to add that not all managers are to blame. "Most of them are impartial. But there is a very tiny section that have a low opinion about locals and the local environment. Though they are few in numbers, the damage they cause is tremendous! When one such manager or supervisor leaves, he passes on the crude stereotype message to his successor that locals are not hard working and difficult to deal with. Those who actually do work hard (and are dedicated and committed) suffer because of this perception — thus the theme — A Cry For Help!"

What is worrisome, says Majid, is that the current generation won't fast results with lesser inputs in comparison to his older generation — and is very intolerant and often rebellious. "If we don't address this, there will be dangerous consequences".

The Omani employee's lot hardly improves when he gets an Omani manager, who, according to Majid, "shoots at his own troops!" "When I studied the attitudes and behaviour of the Omani manager vis-à-vis expatriate peers, I found out that he sadly generally speaking and with due respects here that he lags behind in his management capabilities. He lacks confidence and assertiveness, — and 'hates to rock the boat' and allows the status quo whenever there is a problem."

Many among the earlier generation of Omani employees rose to become managers because there was not much competition in those days, points out Majid. The current generation — on the other hand — are well educated and qualified, and this leads to a clash and confrontation. The Local Manager has some typical traits, he says. "He is averse to risk taking and is unable to say no. He is not strong willed and affirmative, and wants to be nice to everyone, which stems from his culture".

It is hard to argue with Majid because he is basing his theories on his own experience or that of a trusted colleague.

Author plans novel on real life stories of road accident victims

M Najmuz Zafar
Muscat

A human resource consultant, Majid al Suleimany, is collecting real life stories of road accident victims and expects his sixth book, Behind the Wheel to come out in a couple of months. Disturbed by the rising road accidents and resulting casualties, Suleimany decided to pen short stories in a novel format. To reach to a larger audience, the book will be written in simplest of English.

"As we know that English is second or third language for a majority of Omanis and expatriates, I am trying to write it in a free flowing style, without the use of jargon and pompous words. This way, the book can be introduced in schools as part of the road safety curriculum," he said.

The idea for the book germinated when a young girl Suleimany knew, perished in an accident along with her whole family. "I had not heard from the girl, who often used to call me about my writing and my work, for long. I called the general manager of that firm and enquired about the girl. I was shocked and deeply moved to hear about her and whole family's death in a car accident. I had read a newspaper article about the accident but never realised that it was about someone I knew."

Suleimany has been busy meeting people who want to share their stories and even visiting hospitals to learn about people's losses and if they are interested in sharing their experiences with readers.

"We will use pseudonyms for those who do not want to be identified, but have a story that can be a lesson for others." The book will have images, graphics and actual newspaper clippings with road accident stories.

Once published, Suleimany feels that there is scope for the book to be translated into Arabic. "We need to reach as many people possible to raise awareness about the rising fatalities due to road accidents and the burden it causes on the families as well as the nation." He is also looking for sponsors or like-minded people who want to spread the word on the issues of road safety.

EDUCATION

Majid Said Nasser Al Suleimany, managing director of Management and Marketing Development Consultancy, speaks with Oman Economic Review about issues concerning education and training, Kathryn Fasegha reports.

Jan 2000

Mind matters

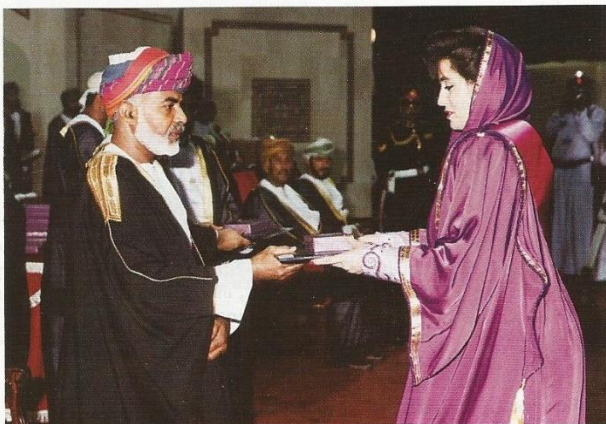

Oman has made remarkable progress in education during the last 29 years. The government has always viewed the issue of education with the seriousness it deserves. An increasing number of colleges and training facilities are available in Oman, but in many cases the education provided does not appear to be preparing the students for life in the working world.

Majid Said Nasser Al Suleimany, managing director of Management and Marketing Development Consultancy, feels that one identifiable problem with education in the country is that it is still in an evolving process. Education should not just be a question of reading your books and passing exams, it should also be about encouraging the student to be both proactive and pragmatic, to encounter a situation and find a solution for it.

He has found that in many cases, the students are not encouraged to learn on their own. You have to guide them. Something the universities should do is to emphasise the practical aspects of education.

He believes that another problem with training, is that there is no mentoring. The school curriculum should be reviewed, starting from the pre-secondary school stage. The children have to start from an early age to be taught to think things through, not just to memorise and reproduce information when asked.

In the vocational training field, there is a need for someone to follow up with students, when they are attached to companies. Currently there is a system where someone checks on them every month or two, but these students need a lot more attention than this. They need someone to follow their progress on a regular basis. Unfortunately, some of the companies they have been sent to just do not care about their progress. They do not take a personal interest in making sure that the students learn something.

Coordination and mentoring are areas to be looked into with regard to education and training. It is not just a question of completing a syllabus; it is seeing how well this fellow is doing in the company. In the words of Al Suleimany, "Mentoring, coaching, counselling are very important. There is a lot to be done in these areas.

"For somebody like me who worked in PDO for 25 years, I can find a big difference between the first batch of Omanis who came and the present ones. Things are actually starting to change now, because even primary schools are starting to make students think about how to react to different situations."

Making them think has the advantage that when confronted with a question in an examination, or in any other situation, they can think it through and decide on the best possible direction from which to tackle it. Rather than just reproducing every thing they have ever memorised concerning that topic.

Al Suleimany further expresses the opinion that the vocational training schemes being run by private colleges can create a balance between the theoretical and practical aspects of education, as the scheme enables the institutes to introduce the students into real life working situations as a part of their training.

However, to enable the student to get the full benefit of his training, the institutes should make very frequent visits to see how he is doing, and not just leave it to the organisations. Because the fact is, not everyone in the work environment has the time or patience to spare in helping this student learn all that he should actually learn.

With proper monitoring on the part of the institutes, and the right kind of cooperation within the companies, it could turn into the perfect tool for preparing young Omanis for specific jobs. Responsibility for the trainees should be a 50-50 venture between the institutes and the companies.

The first thing that the institutes should do is to sit and talk to the companies and find out what they want and then endeavour to provide it. The institutes could also establish career development offices, manned by people who can pay frequent visits to the companies where students have been placed, to assess their progress and follow them up closely through liaison with the management.

The situation where the same teacher who teaches in the classrooms has to go to the companies to assess individual students seems a recipe for failure, because such a person cannot have enough time to be thorough.

Emphasis should also be placed on languages, especially now that Oman is talking seriously about the tourism sector. It would be beneficial to have Omanis who can speak languages besides Arabic, as this will boost Oman's image internationally.

The main problem that many companies face is that some students who go through their education without the benefit of practical training, still need guidance when they are in the workplace. They still need to be spoon-fed; unlike the ones that go through the vocational training scheme. The universities and higher colleges need to incorporate practical sessions into their programmes. For instance, a petroleum engineering student should be sent to an oil company to get a feel of the practical aspects of the profession before he graduates.

The universities also have to set up a proper monitoring unit to check up on students because, if the country is investing in the future of these students, then everybody should play their role.

Asked how the issue of education and training can affect the pace of Omanisation, Al Suleimany says that companies need to be more patient. Senior Omanis need to be more patient with the younger ones. He believes that the pace of Omanisation can be sped up if companies will contribute to making sure that these trainees actually get the required level of on the job training they need.

EDUCATION

In a company such as PDO, which has been patient in training Omanis over the years, there are now a number of Omanis who have risen to senior positions. A high percentage of Omanisation has been completed in PDO, because Omanis were given chances. They were sent on courses to improve themselves; they were sent overseas for further training, and they were sent on cross postings.

This is the kind of attitude that every company has to adopt for Omanisation to be successful. Instead of the practice of fixing numbers, so that when you look at the graphs, the Omanis are all at the lower end of the graph as drivers, clerks etc. For Omanisation to be considered complete, there have to be Omanis represented on every strata of the organisation.

Al Suleimany advises young Omani graduates aspiring to work in multi-nationals, or already working in one to be patient. Don't think that because you are a university graduate, you immediately expect to get a high position of responsibility. You must work hard for it, be patient, show your leadership skills and also be very proactive. Go the extra mile to get something done. This is the only way that you are going to be considered for any positions of responsibility.

The young Omanis should be ready to compete and not just say: "He's an expatriate, I am an Omani". It doesn't work like that. They have to show themselves ready and able to do the job.

The companies on their part, should be more prepared to take risks. They should be more prepared to take chances. It is better to take the people you have now, and improve them, because one day, the government might declare a requirement of 80 per cent Omanisation. You may have had good guys before, not given them chances, and now you will only have what you can get. So, be prepared to give more time and effort to training these young people.

In the long run, let us not forget that this country is going to be run by Omanis.

It is not only people like Al Suleimany who recognise the benefits of making sure that the younger generation of Omanis are properly trained and equipped to run their country effectively. The Omani government also recognises the importance of having as many of their nationals as possible receive quality education, hence the approval given to private colleges and institutions to begin operations in Oman.

Majid gives nation wise words in national newspaper article

Drive safely, for the sake of family and loved ones

MAJID Said Nasser al-Suleimany of DPU-B's Human Resources department contributed to the country's awareness of road safety last month when an article he'd written appeared in the Times Of Oman.

Titled "Stray thoughts on Oman Traffic", Majid's article covered nearly a whole page of the May 10 issue.

The article carried some excellent points and so, below, al-Fahal reproduces a condensed form.

"In the olden days, people used to travel in caravans with armed guards to protect themselves from marauding tribesmen or wild animals, and to be in a better position to protect themselves from natural forces like sandstorms," Majid wrote.

"My father likes to narrate how in the olden days it took them two days to travel from Muscat to his hometown in Hayl Ghaf in Quriyat - a journey that now takes less than one hour in the automobile!

"In those days, when people travelled, they had a reason and purpose for doing so - travelling was hardly for fun.

"But despite the fact that seatbelts have been made compulsory; and despite the fact that the Royal Oman Police are there to monitor the situation and provide professional assistance beyond the call of duty; and despite the fact that people are becoming more aware of good driving habits, behavior and 'defensive driving' techniques; I am sorry to say that driving in Oman is presently far from safe and the situation is getting worse day by day.

"People now start to ponder whether they really need to be out on the roads at all.

"In the old days driving courtesy was taken for granted! I remember an expatriate friend who was full of praise for Oman's 'road etiquette'. You only had to indicate and you got the 'flash-on' immediately to be allowed to proceed.

"Nowadays you do not know if that 'flash-on' is to allow you on or warn you to 'do not attempt, I am here!' A 'flash-on' is internationally recognised as to allow you to proceed, yet it now often is used to mean the exact opposite.

"Beware of the 'taxi buses'. If there is a passenger who waves at it and you are on the right of the bus, don't be surprised if he cuts in front of you to make sure he gets that passenger. Why should he worry about you?

"It is sad to note that more and more fatalities occur among the younger generation - the hope and future of our country. So what is the solution?

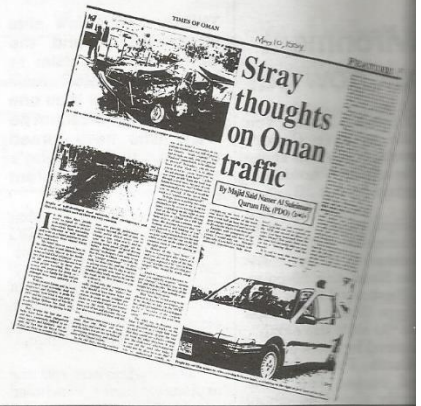

"Parents, teachers and elders have a role to play by giving guidance and instructions. More television and radio programmes should be produced and a return to the good old days when Police drove in civilian cars and used radar traps should be encouraged.

"Companies can also assist and the best example is PDO where safe driving is an important priority.

"Let us learn to be more understanding and patient, more co-operative and vigilant. Remember, at the end of the day it is not only but your family and loved ones who will have to suffer the pain of your recklessness and disregard for proper driving habits.

"Let us make driving fun and safe. And let us remove the fear. But last but not least, do not vent your anger and frustration on the yourself and other road users."

PDO sponsors students as young as 10 years old

IT IS no secret that PDO sponsors students through higher education, including HNDs and degree courses, but it is a little known fact that there are students as young as 10 years-old being sponsored by the Company.

Last month, the Sultan's School near Seeb held trials for 10 and 11 year olds, Grade Six age, to see which of them would be suitable for a PDO scholarship.

They were tested in Maths, Arabic and English and the best five or six will be chosen.

The PDO course is run in parallel with one from the Ministry of Education. PDO caters for children from inside

Between Us Only hits bookstalls

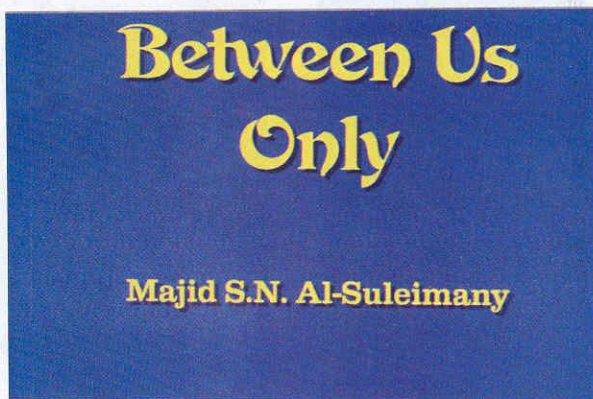

By A Staff Reporter

MUSCAT — Majid Said Nasser al Suleimany's recently released book Between Us Only has now been launched at bookshops in Abdu Dhabi and Dubai.

In Oman, the 434-page book is available at Turtle's Bookshop and Family Shopping. Sponsored by M B Petroleum Services LLC of Mohamed al Barwani, the book contains more than 84 articles that have appeared in the author's column in Oman Observer.

Majid has a very interesting and straightforward way of putting things. For example, in one of the articles, Majid explains in a very lucid style that "the beauty of Oman is that the nationals do not impose their customs, habits, heritage, behaviour and values on others. We make room for accommodation and acceptance, to give chances in errors of judgment and in perceptions. We are moderate and flexible. Ask an Omani a direction, if he is free, not only he will direct you to it, but even take you there!"

To elaborate further on this point, Majid shares a very interesting, short and real story about how he got a job in Abu Dhabi. The general manager had travelled to Salalah and lost his way on the trip. He was not only shown the direction, but this was done after he was given a meal with his family by one Bedouin family! When this GM saw Majid in his Omani attire, he said "No interview, just give him the job, let him start tomorrow! The panel thought he was joking but he was dead serious!"

Another interesting aspect of Majid's writing style is that he can explain most burning, complex and contemporary issues in a few sentences with unqualified clarity of thought.

MAJID Al Suleimany is a well-read, witty and prolific writer who often makes you laugh and sit up and think on ordinary but often neglected and not so cared matters in the society. He also writes about social evils prevalent in the society with a funny touch and lashes it with heavy blows. This unique style and way we rarely find in other writers. His prose is simple and clear and elegant.

The collection of his columns published in the Observer and some unpublished ones appear in a book form — Between Us Only.

The title itself tells the reader the topics he talks about are not so sweet many times, and many of the articles irritate somebody or other.

Since it is 'between us only' and whispered in to your ears he often talks about matters which many are scared to touch. He talks about burning homes, divorce, pride and prejudice, human suffering, human fears, social trends and changes and people's idiotic concerns to keep up with the Joneses.

As a human resources professional, in his essays Majid gives very important and valuable tips and notes to company executives and chiefs.

Looking at the society's craze for materialism and vanity the writer asks: "What happened to the sanctity of marriage as the highest institution in our lives according to our Islamic teachings — the sunnah and the hadeeth? Our customs, traditions and heritage?"

Divorces are happening at the drop of a hat. So he advises "we need to impart to our younger generations the sanctity and high importance of the institution of marriage. The importance of patience, harmony, tolerance, trust, faith, and confidence. This is in order to save our society for future generations."

In another article he asks: "What is this new ugly and unpleasant developments in our homes? This 'domestic violence' thing? Do we have an excuse for this? I satellite dishes, and the foreign films a dramas that are beamed to our homes? Or that the new in-the-fashion now, the provocations and 'do not care stuff' — follow by lifting of hand and beating out that pe creature that bore you habits that you a your own and have made you proud too? You consider the effect on the children? H what is wrong with us nowadays?"

In an advice to chief executive officers and managers the author reminds "what happened to all the principles of treating at with respect, with utmost ethics, professionalism, kindness, cordial reception and co-tesy? Whether they are Omanis or other people need to be treated properly and with more esteem and respect."

As a human resources consultant, Majid is giving valuable tips to job applicants in his article "Applying for a job". Some very important dos and don'ts for the aspiring job seekers.

"Send your application with just Photos copies of your certificates and other documents."

"When you are called for an interview: not tremble and show fear and worries. Remain cool, collected, calm and in control."

"Never ask 'how much you will pay if until an offer has actually been made."

"Prepare your CV (maximum two typ pages only) and a covering letter (one page only) with your application."

Majid's "Between us Only" is a sincere attempt by a simple human being who cherishes his culture and traditions, and want it to be preserved for the coming generations. It is a labour of love with keen observation of the society in the 21st century Arab world in particular. It also carries warning recollections, fears and advises for all.

The Sequel — Between Us Only

B*BETWEEN Us Only* The Sequel is a collection of columns published in the Oman Daily Observer by the author from January 2005 to July 2008. It is part of personal thoughts of the author on the day-to-day happenings in the society, part satire, part analytical, but in the long run, it does really matter — it is cautionary and advisory. It's the second book on the same line, and while it's a bit overdue at times, it's still a fun reading experience.

In his impressive style, Majid skillfully combines the pride and prejudices of the society, love and hate, vanity, pomp and show with a mixture of elements of caution to show that somewhere something is lacking and eventually leaves the readers to find out the answers. Sometimes one may feel Majid is adopting a style of the famous American writer these writers who get more faces than fans for making some feel embarrassed about their behaviour in the office. His interest in office politics is subtle and deftly narrated. No one could accuse him of being over-sable, but there's something likeably direct and single-minded about his desire to speak to, and for the confused ranks of managers.

Exploring the underbelly of the society — hypocrisy — Majid tells his readers to pray so that the Almighty Allah may protect all of us. Whatever others may think, his intentions seem to be very plain — love your country, love your culture and love one another.

Where he is right is in underlining the fact that some people are encouraged by elites who take haphazardly short-sighted decisions which in the long run costs the people dearly.

Book with stories of accident victims pitches for road safety

This is Majid al Suleimany's sixth book, two more to be launched soon

M Najmuz Zafar
Muscat

It is arguably the first time in the country that several heart-wrenching real life stories of road accident victims have been put together in a book to tackle road safety issues and educate people on the consequences of reckless driving.

A retired human resources consultant, Majid al Suleimany has collected more than 60 real life stories of road accident victims and their families for the 450-page book Being the Safe Driver.

Published in the US, the book looks at the rising number of road accidents and also provides technical advice from experts. "With PDO's help I was able get and narrate several accidents with a detailed view on what caused the accidents. The book has views from a number of HSE (health, safety and environment) experts on how to be a safe driver. And I have also quoted verses from the Q'uran to show that putting other people's lives in danger for no apparent reason is not acceptable in Islam," said Suleimany.

Majid al Suleimany

He said this makes Being the Safe Driver a good handbook. "We don't look at the accidents from an emotional level. We only see statistics in newspapers and news clipping about one more accidents. The day we start associating with it emotionally and putting faces to victims, we will be more responsible on roads."

To take a closer look and see the consequences in person, the author visited hospitals and was distraught to see people maimed for life. "It was so emotional to see children and adults with broken limbs and burnt bodies. There were so many young boys with debilitating injuries - who otherwise should have been looking at their future - languishing in hospital wards."

He said there should be a programme to show the public what consequences the victims and their families are facing. "It could be either through documentaries or planned hospital tours."

Suleimany is already in talks with a couple of people who could translate the book into Arabic. "The plan is to go to schools and give them a presentation on road safety and leave some books in their library."

This is Suleimany's sixth book, and he is expecting to launch another two very soon.

"I plan to do an official launch of Being the Safe Driver and my other two upcoming books sometime in April. This would be the first time that an Omani author is releasing three books at a time," he said.

Arabic version of book on stories of road accident victims launched

M Najmuz Zafar
Muscat

After writing Being the Safe Driver, Oman's first of its kind book based on real life stories of road accident victims, author Majid al Suleimany has now come out with its Arabic translation.

Having originally written in English in 2013, Suleimany said he translated the book into Arabic to reach out to maximum number of people across the country.

"Road safety is an issue that needs to be taken to schools. Children should be educated on the horrible consequences of road accidents that have devastated thousands of families in the country," Suleimany said, adding that he is planning to ask schools to keep the book in their libraries. "We should start with young people and educate them about this sensitive and fatal issue. I am trying to get in touch with the Ministry of Education as well. I have also given free copies to the Oman Road Safety Association and ROP Sohar to spread the message."

A retired human resources consultant, Suleimany, who has authored many books, said that it was not easy writing this one, but a few personal experiences forced him to take a deeper look at the road safety issue.

"Narrating an incident that shock him deeply, Suleimany said, "There was this young girl I knew who used to take great interest in my work and would often call to enquire about my writing. When I did not hear from her for a long time, I called the company where she worked. I was shocked to hear that she along with her family had got killed in a road accident," adding, "Though I had read about the accident in a newspaper, but never realised it could be about someone I knew.

"Every day we read about accidents in the media, but how often we get to know what happens next? We hardly get to know about the families affected and how survivors struggle to get their lives back on track."

He added that Oman is a country with one of the highest number of road accidents and casualties. "It is unbelievable how people put their and other's lives at risk."

Speaking about the translation of the book into Arabic, Suleimany said he received a lot of help from PDO.

Printed in the US, the book has a collection of more than 60 real life stories. While the Arabic version is available at Family Book Shop for ROS, the one in English is available for ROS.
